✓ FAITH COMMUNITIES

- ✓ Initiate conversations about core values and faith commitments of your faith tradition and how you can express those values in the electoral process.
- ✓ Use the pulpit to preach at least one sermon about why it is important and appropriate for people of faith to express your faith-based values through various forms of engagement in the electoral process.
- ✓ Call to action — urge your community members to take as many of the three actions below as possible between now and November.

✓ INDIVIDUALS & TEAMS

- ✓ Tell your story about why climate justice and racial justice matter to you, how it connects with your faith, and how you are consequently choosing to engage in the electoral process in specific ways.
- ✓ Initiate conversations about why climate justice and racial justice matter to you, especially with those who may not agree with you or who may not otherwise vote for climate and racial justice.
- ✓ Organize or join an "action team" with at least two other people from your community to act together in a specific way towards a specific goal in advance of the November elections.
